MODULAR EMPLOYABLE SKILLS (MES) UNDER SKILL DEVELOPMENT INITIATIVE SCHEME (SDIS)

(Source:- Ministry of Labour & Employment)

The skill level and educational attainment of the workforce determines the productivity as well as the ability to adapt to the changing industrial environment. A majority of Indian workforce does not possess marketable skills which is an impediment in getting decent employment and improving their economic condition. While India has large young population, only 5% of the Indian labour force in the age group of 20-24 years has obtained vocational skills through formal means whereas the percentage in industrialized countries varies between 60% and 96%. About 63% of the school students drop out at different stages before reaching Class-X. Only about 2.5 million vocational training seats are available in the country whereas about 12.8 million persons enter the labour market every year. Even out of these training places, very few are available for early school dropouts. Thus a large number of school drop outs do not have access to skill development for improving their employability. The educational entry requirements and long duration of courses of the formal training system are some of the impediments for a person of low educational attainment to acquire skills for his livelihood. Further, the largest share of new jobs in India is likely to come from the unorganized sector that employs upto 93 per cent of the national workforce, but most of the training programmes cater to the needs of the organized sector.

Priority is given to covering those above the age of 14 years who have been or withdrawn as child labour to enable them to learn employable skills in order to get gainful employment. NO TAKERS FOR ULFA'S SEPARATIST IDEOLOGY

(Source: - Asian News International)

People of Assam do not want bloodshed and violence. They want peace and normalcy. And this is the case in Sibsagar too, the birthplace of ULFA, where the first ULFA meeting was held at Rang Ghar, an amphitheatre of the Ahom Royalty in 1979.

Once a hotbed of militancy, Sibsagar, now is a tourist hotspot. Hundreds of tourists from all over the country and abroad visit Sibsagar to see the 200-year-old Sibsagar Tank and Rang Ghar, the oldest amphitheater in Asia. And as peace gradually returns trade and commerce activities have got a boost in the state. ULFA is largely responsible for instability in the region for the past three decades.

Chief commanders of the banned outfit except Pares Barua have been under judicial custody in Guwahati since December 2009. The Centre has been trying to bring ULFA to the negotiating tables, so that a solution to the problems can be found through a political dialogue within a democratic framework. The people of Assam have suffered a lot in the last 3 decades of militancy, which has affected the development and growth of the state.

Whether it is Sibsagar, the birthplace of ULFA or any other part of Assam, there is one common theme - peace. And, if there is peace there will be economic growth. And this is what the people want.

UNION BUDGET TARGETS INFRASTRUCTURE DEVELOPMENT IN NORTHEAST

(Source :- Asian News International)

The union Budget presented by the Finance Minister on February 26, aims at developing infrastructure in the northeast. The budget focuses on developing a smoother farm to market connectivity to enhance trade and commerce.

Rs 1,114 crores have been earmarked for development of infrastructure under the Pradhanmantri Gram Sadak Yojna. The Rail budget also focused on connecting remote areas of northeast with the rest of the country. Connectivity with South Asian nations like Bangladesh and Nepal has been given a high priority to promote India's Look East Policy.

Proposal of a direct rail link between Tripura and Bangladesh will improve bilateral relations between both the countries. Business community has welcomed this move as it would save a lot of time in moving cargo between the two regions and indirectly add to their profits.

Keeping in mind the welfare of people, the apex agency for development in northeast, DONER, has been allocated an additional Rs 285 crores, raising its funds to Rs 1760 from Rs 1475 crore. To promote better air connectivity and facilities, Rs 121 crore has been set aside for the development of airports. In addition, Rs 80 crore has been added to the funds allocated to the Northeast council. The council will now be given Rs 623 crore instead of Rs 543 crore for the development projects it has undertaken.

Though the subsidy for the Assam gas project has been reduced but regular funding will be maintained. The Finance Minister has also committed liberal funding for ongoing projects. Development of the Northeast region is a thrust area for the government, which has been delayed by the activities of various militant groups operating in the region.
